Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. Claims 1 and 3 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Parker, et al. (5,451,075) in view of Hansen, et al. (5,452,913).

Parker discloses an airbag door structure comprising a skin layer for forming a surface of an instrument panel to form an incision groove 52; a foam resin 56; a centerpiece 18, at which a core 38 is contacted with the bottom surface and installed provided with an airbag opening at an inner side of the foam resin; and an airbag 58 mounted in the airbag opening of the centerpiece, wherein a flange portion 16c bent toward the incision groove of the skin layer is formed at an end portion of the airbag door mounted on the airbag opening of the centerpiece.

Parker discloses the claimed invention except for a hemming part. Hansen discloses a break-away airbag retaining flap comprising a hemming part and a reinforcing part 36. Based on the teachings of Hansen, it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to modify the flange portion of Parker to include a hemming part to provide a smooth edge.

3. Claims 2 and 4 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Parker, et al. (5,451,075) in view of Hansen, et al. (5,452,913) as applied to claim 1 above, and further in view of Davis, Jr., et al. (6,942,243).

Parker in view of Hansen teaches the claimed invention except a processing process. Davis, Jr. teaches an airbag door assembly wherein a free end portion 38 is pressed and formed between 2 to 5mm wide. Based on the teachings of Davis, Jr. , it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to modify the combination of Parker and Hansen to use a pressing process to provide method of forming the flange hemming part.

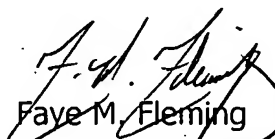

Conclusion

4. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.
